18. I am grateful for the opportunity to write with Renaut, whom I consider to be a uniquely gifted leader. Renaut’s church does leadership development incredibly well. Mosaic’s executive pastor, Phil Taylor, has compiled a highly effective church leadership training process. A portion of the following has been extracted from his materials.
19. In the context of the local church, an elder team is first and foremost a group of shepherds. Everything else is secondary and optional. (See chapter 19 on the role of shepherding.) Each elder uniquely brings different gifts to build up the body of believers. In addition to meeting the biblical requirements (1 Tim. 3:1–7), they should possess a passion for justice, the nations, unreached people groups, and the lost. Elders should weep over the lost as the Lord Jesus wept over Jerusalem. The office of elder demands that one is closely walking with the Holy Spirit.

22. It is not my intention in this brief discussion of community to touch on the distinction between small communities of believers and the house church. I am well aware of the house church movement in the United States and around the world. I applaud the growth of the house church, particularly in areas of the world where a larger gathering of believers is difficult or even problematic.
